Much more damage would have been done and many lives would almost certainly have been lost were it not for the fact that most of the small craft travel well in shore. The gale being off shore could not kick up much of a sea until it had traveled a mile or two. Most of the pleasure craft of this section which were in commission were within the narrow strip of water which the wind and the rain together made almost as smooth as a mill pond.

MANHATTAN WEDS MISS NEW JERSEY

Tunnel Wizard M'Adoo Slips on the Ring of Steel Tubing Today.

BRIDAL TRIP OF 18) SECONDS

(Special from United Press.) New York, July 19 .- Miss New Jersey was wedded to Old Father Knickerbocker at 10 o'clock this morning and the tunnel wizard, William McAdoo who slipped on the ring of steel tubing admits that he had rather build such tunnel than be Mayor of New York. At 10 o'clock sharp at a signal from Miss Harriet Floyd McAdoo, daughter of the tunnel's creator, the first train began its trip under the Hudson river from New York to New Jersey, and the hope of years, "three minutes from Jersey to New York" was fulfilled. At the same instant every steamboat in the river above blew siren blasts of welcome. But they could not be heard by the invited guests on the train fifty feet below the surface of the river, nor could they hear the sounds of the twenty exploding dynamite bombs which from Exchange Place announced the opening of the pair of tubes. At 10:05 the guests on the first Federal train that passed under the river were escorted to the court of honor in Jer-sey City Hall where the opening ceremonies were held.

There speeches were made by Mayor Wittpenn, Governor Forte of New Jersey, 'President McAdoo of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company, and Charles M. Jacobs, chief engineer of the structure. The "Subscribers Train" passed under the river later, while at 3 o'clock the tubes will be thrown open to traffic for the general public. open to traffic for the general public. Then in two or three years there will be opened the extension from the uptown pair of tubes from Twenty-third street to the Grand Central depot. All these tunnels completed, a passenger from New England and the West can make his connections with all trains without seeing the skyline of New York. The building of the downtown tunnel connecting the financial district of New York with the financial district of New York with Jersey City has been a herculean feat. St. Paul 4. at his saloon on Barnum and Bond avenue, came up before Judge Peck in Stratford at 9 this morning. Two witnesses swore positively that they bought beer at Findorak's saloon at about 1:30 o'clock p. m., going in by the back door. Findorak and his witnesses attempted to establish an alibilicial ming that he was not at the saloon during the day, as he went to church, then to dinner at the house of a friend, then to dinner at the house of a friend, then to a funeral, returning about 4:30 p. m. As the trial progressed leave was given to amend the complaint by charging that Findorak sold beer on Sunday, June 27. Attorney Klein of Bridgeport appeared for the defendant. Upon the hearing of the amended Bridgeport appeared for the defendant.
Upon the hearing of the amended complaint Findorak was found guilty and fined $10 and costs, $34.52. Attorney Klein remarked that he hadn't learned as much in years as he has in the Stratford court.

Mother and Sister of Lieut. Sutton Before Naval Court of Inquiry Today

LEONARD CONDUCTS CASE

(By Samuel M. Evans, Staff Correspondent of the United Press.) Annapolis, Md., July 19.-Because the Navy Department believes that the testimony gathered by a woman, unaided, with every circumstance against her throws more light on the case than was brought out by the secret hearing before the board of inquest, a court of inquiry today began sittings at Annapolis Naval Academy to determine the exact manner in which Lieutenant James N. Sutton met his death on the grounds of that institution on the night of October 12, 1907. The story that Mrs. Rose Sutton Parker, sister of the dead officer, who was called a suicide by the inquest board, dragged from unwilling witnesses in a remarkable inquiry she conducted, just after her brother's remains had been buried in Arlington in the most improvement. her brother's remains had been buried in Arlington, is the most important part of the inquiry. When she and her mother entered the court room to-day Mrs. Parker carried with her a bundle of papers, comprising all she knows about the circumstances of her brother's death, and from this report questions will be put that may clear questions will be put that may clear up the mystery. Both women, before the court convened, declared hopefully the court convened, declared hopefully that the stain of suicide would be removed from the dead man's name.

The government has expressed its desire to get every fact that might help to determine the manner of the young man's death and the responsibility therefore. There are many points in the evidence given by witnesses concerning the fight that preceded the death of Lieutenant Sutton about which the young man's mother and sister say more is to be learned. why did Sutton and his brother of-ficers quarrel that night? The story told by the officers is that a row started in a discussion about where the automobile which had been taken from Carvel Hall should be stopped. The Suttons declare that this was too trivial a thing to start the fatal quar-

this statement. He was sentenced to this statement. He was sentenced to fifteen days in jail, but judgment was suspended, if he got back to Trumbull on the 4:33 train this afternoon.

The Monday morning derelicts were present and received the usual sentences. May Mullins was presented with 30 days, Joseph Fitzgerald shared a like fate, and Michael Flynn, having stayed away since last January got but 20 days. John Cumberland, like the others, was drunk and was given 15 days. John resented such treatment and said that he would worship Bacchus in Stratford hereafter. Walter Smith of Saturday was Robert Allen of Monday, and under the last men-tioned cognomen went to jail for 10 days for drunkenness. #### Sale of Buttermilk Rapidly Increasing

The buttermilk fad is proving a good thing for farmers. Butter making was rapidly going out of fashion in this section and instead of making trips to town to dispose of butter and eggs, the farmers sold their milk to the dairy-men. Most of the eggs are now sold to peddlers and others who makeregular calls upon the farmers. The butter-milk habit is growing so, however, that butter making is becoming more profitable than selling milk.

Years ago most of the buttermilk was fed to the pigs, and while people who live on the farms generally look-
